EXPLOSION AT ARSENAL

One Man Killed and Three Others Seriously Injured at Philadelphia

(Special to The Herald)
Philadelphia, August 3.—One man was killed and three others seriously injured today in an explosion in the bombproof building of the Frankford Arsenal. The dead man was James Harkens. The explosion occurred while the workmen were disassembling old fuses.

BOMBARDED BY HEAVY LONG RANGE GUNS

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, August 3.—Soisson has again been bombarded by the Germans with their heavy long range guns. The cannonade was described by the French war office today as extremely violent. The French position at Les Eparges in the Woivre district, 12 miles northeast of St. Mihiel, has also been shelled by the Germans. German attacks against the French position at Barrenkopf in the Vosges were successfully repulsed.

A welcome visitor to our city this morning was Old Sol, who has been taking an extended vacation elsewhere of late.

ALLIES MAKE GAINS AT THE DARDANELLES

(Special to The Herald)
London, August 3.—Another gain for the Allies at the Dardanelles is reported by Sir Ian Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the British forces. The report says: "We have won the crest of a ridge in the network of Turkish trenches. Our success was attained mainly through a bombardment and the explosion of three mines."

Looking for George A. White,
Who Is Expected to Return to Dover Home.

George A. White of Dover, who was sent to the state insane hospital at Concord last June, escaped from that institution on Sunday. The hospital authorities have notified the Dover police in the expectation that White will show up at his home in Dover where his wife resides. He is reported to be dangerously insane.

CONTINUE WORK OF DESTRUCTION

Italian General Staff is Certain That the Immediate Future Will See Austrian Communication Cut

(Special to The Herald)
Rome, August 3.—Italian howitzers are rapidly reducing Fort Hensel, the chief defensive work of Malborghetto in the Carnic Alps, and the Italian general staff is certain that the immediate future will see Austrian communication cut between Trentino and Carinthia. Dispatches received from Bologna today state that the bombardment of the Tarvis group of fortifications is making such headway, and the Italian operations against the Austrian defenses at Gorizia on the Isonzo front are so successful that Lt. Gen. Cadorna has already mapped out his plan of campaign which will follow the fall of one or both of these cities. Prisoners and wounded Italian troops who are back from Gorizia declare that the fighting on the Isonzo front during July ranked with anything in France or Poland for sanguinary fierceness.

STILL ANOTHER STEAMER TOLL OF SUBMARINE

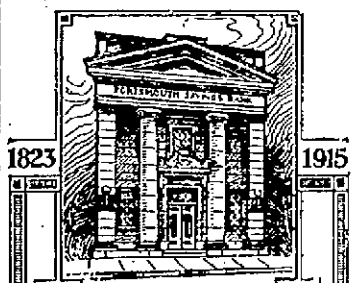

(Special to The Herald)
London, August 3. The British steamer Ranza, 2320 tons, has been sunk presumably by a German submarine. Her captain and eleven members of the crew of twenty-four reached land safely, but the others are missing.

LANDLORD KILLS HIS TENANT

(Special to The Herald)
Boston, August 3.—Handeide was done over a $20 rent bill in the North End today. Dominico Rana, landlord of a three-story tenement house at 25 Clark street, shot and killed his tenant, Giuseppe Varano, in the presence of their wives and the two Varano children. Rana escaped.

A WARM WELCOME

William J. Peard, a train baggage-master on the Boston and Maine railroad, received quite a warm greeting at the depot this morning from his many friends at the local station. Bill is back on his former run on the first Boston train arriving here at 8.05, after several months on the Lawrence branch, and is delighted with the change.

TRYING TO CUT OFF RUSSIAN ARMY

Gap in Semi-Circle of German Forces Around Warsaw is Only 100 Miles Long

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, August 3.—General von Buelow's army, which swept through Mitau on Sunday, is now only 29 miles from the important Russian port city of Riga on the Baltic Sea. Field Marshal von Mackensen's army southeast of Warsaw has also made further progress and now the gap in the semi-circle around Warsaw is now 100 miles long at its narrowest point east of the city, while the wings of the Austro-German forces in front of the city. The Russians forts are being shelled by the heaviest howitzers of the Teutonic forces; 16 and 17-inch shells are crashing into the forts of Warsaw and Górzlów.

dropped 25 bombs. Much damage is believed to have been done. Strassburg is an important link in the line of Italian defenses and is one of the most strongly fortified German cities in the western part of the empire.

SOME HAVE SETTLED.

The railroad has made a settlement with many of the passengers who were injured in jumping from the electric car on the Rye line three weeks ago.

Robert Held and Charles C. Eckloff, the two Federal steamboat inspectors held by the coroner's jury as being partially responsible for the Eastland disaster are released on bail.

HAS CUT DOWN ANNUAL DEFICIT

(Special to The Herald)
Boston, August 3.—In spite of less operating revenue the Boston and Maine railroad has been able to cut down its annual deficit, the past year by $1,710,230. President Hustis issued a financial statement today for the 12 months ending June 30 last. It shows a deficit after paying all charges of $341,462, as against a deficit last year for the same period of $2,044,742.

"KNOCKOUTS I HAVE SEEN"

A man can talk himself out of most anything, but did you ever hear of a fighter who talked himself out of a decision? Well, here's a case. It actually happened, and I'll give you the facts and figures.

Away back in the "good old days," about the fall of 1899, Sioux City, Ia., was a good, sporting town and they had boxing and other interesting sports going in full swing.

Billy Murphy, former featherweight champion of the world, was living there at the time, and was a great personal as well as an athletic favorite of the sportively inclined townspeople. Thus it came about that a match was arranged between him and Sig Hart of Chicago, the men to go fifteen rounds and the gloves to be none too big.

Tommy White, another of the grand old-timers of the ring, and one of the real brainy boys among the early crop, was in Denver at the time and they wired for him to come on and act as referee, figuring him quite an extra attraction. He accepted.

Murphy started off in his usual hurricane style. He was one of the most vigorous battlers I ever saw and he was getting a bit to the old side and a trifle puffed-up. He must have figured that he had to win quickly if he were to win at all. That's how he came to pile up a tremendous lead in the first half dozen rounds, Hart backing away most of the time and waiting.

In a furious mixup Bill swung his famous "Mary Ann," his pet name for his famous old right-hand punch, and the forearm landed on Hart's head, causing a severe concussion. The fight was stopped immediately, and the eager Murphy, who never missed a chance, walked to the footlights to explain to the crowd just what had happened.

The round ended right there and Referee White told Hart to go to his corner and sit down, as he hadn't ordered the bout stopped. Amid a general bunch of excitement, the time-keeper rang the bell for the seventh round and Hart advanced to the center.

Murphy was still addressing the house and White started to count him out. When he got to "ten and out," a riot broke out. Everybody in the house, including the mayor, who was present, seemed to want to take a punch at White.

It looked to be a serious situation for the game and dainty White, who stood smiling back at the angry mob. He finally got the house quiet enough to be heard and for the first time in his career Tommy made a speech. The exact wording of that speech never will be known, but his substance this is what Tommy told them:

"I can best explain my decision in favor of Hart in this way: Supposing in a horse race the favorite is length in front all around the track and then, just before the wire is reached, he stumbles and falls. The second horse comes on and goes under the wire—I leave it to you, isn't he the winner?" The explanation was so unique and fit the case so aptly that the crowd switched like a flash, laughed heartily and then applauded White. It made Tommy quite a favorite in Sioux City, and he got a match there very soon afterwards.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, August 2.—The wettest July in the history of the local weather bureau and the second wettest month in 33 years ceased to bring unpleasant memories to farmers who have been trying to gather their crops of hay when it passed out of existence on Saturday with a record of 8.85 inches of rain to its credit. September of 1882 was the only month on the weather bureau records to claim a better showing with 10.93 inches. According to unofficial figures, the month was the wettest July in 52 years and the second wettest in 93 years. There were but four days during the entire month when the thermometer was able to register better than 85 degrees. The highest temperature was 90 on July 13, which contrasts well with the 104 record on July 4, 1911. The mean temperature for the month was about 65 degrees, some three degrees lower than the average mean temperature for July. It is surprising to find that in spite of the coolness of both June and July that the first seven months of the year show an excess accumulation of temperature above the average of about 430 degrees, which means that should the temperature fall ten degrees below normal for the next 43 days this excess would barely be wiped out. The average of foggy days for July is about one day out of the month. This year the 1st, 16th, 20th and 31st produced heavy fogs. Though an accurate estimate would be impossible, the cost of delays to shipping due to fog would be well up in the thousands of dollars for this port alone.

Chester R. Lawrence has been selected by the Progressive sub-committee of the state committee to make the campaign for lieutenant governor. Lawrence is a stock broker living in Roxbury, and was a candidate for congress in the 12th district against Congressman James A. Gallivan.

President Wood of the American Woolen Company announces that 80 per cent of the machinery in the company's big mills in Lawrence is in operation, and all the woolen mills of the company are doing the best business they have ever done in the history of the company. He states further that orders are being booked that insure work to the woolen mills of the country for months to come, and they were never in such good condition for orders as they are today.

That the exports of the American leather, harness, shoes and other products show an increase in value of more than $50,000,000 for the year ending August 1, 1915, over the corresponding period of 1914-1915, is the striking feature of a report just issued by the New England Shoe and Leather Association, showing the effect of the war on the leather and allied industries in this country. That this tremendous increase is due almost entirely from orders for war supplies for the combatant armies in Europe is not gainsaid, and it is acknowledged that without these war orders, the American leather industry would today be in a bad condition.

HUGHIE JENNINGS. LAUDS EDDIE FOSTER OF WASHINGTON AS THE GREATEST HIT AND RUN PLAYER IN AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Washington, August 3.—Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers says that Eddie Foster, the Washington third baseman, is the only reliable hit and run batter in the American league. Jennings states that Ty Cobb is the greatest hitter the game has ever known, but he is no hit and run batter, for the reason he has not given it any attention to speak of. "The tendency of all the would-be hit and run batters is to hit the ball as hard as they can and trust to luck to its going safely," says Jennings. "The true hitter and runner like Foster, however, has the knack of just meeting the ball and making a real effort to hit it through the territory vacated by the fielder, who goes to cover the base. He is easily the greatest hit and run player in the American league," adds the gingery leader of the Detroit Tigers.

That all nations, neutrals as well as belligerents, must bear the burden of world war, and that all are involved in the causes of the war, were statements asserted by Dr. Charles Fleischner, leader of the Sunday Common.

"Mutual Rebellions of militants and pacifists are foolish in the face of the present human crisis," declared Dr. Fleischner. "The campaign of Roosevelt sounds silly with its obviously disproved slogan that preparedness is the best preventative of war. Equally and a spectacle would be a Tolstoy crying 'Peace' when there can be no peace. Because at bottom we are still bestial, and because organized society and the nations are unorganized, still represent merely the glorification of brute force and the capacity to kill. Therefore we are all guilty. And therefore we all pay the price."

WITH THE SPORTS

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—The national championships of the Amateur Athletic Association, which are to be held next month on the track at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, will bring to San Francisco one of the greatest bands of athletes that ever set a spate in California soil. From East, South, West, Northwest and Middle West will come the men who have been filling the pages of the record books with their wonderful performances. And against them will be pitted the stars of the Pacific Coast.

Undoubtedly the most interesting of the numerous stars is Norman Taber, the man who ran the fastest mile ever timed on a human being. Taber left New York yesterday, accompanied by his trainer, and the Eastern star is apparently anxious to set the mile mark a bit further away from competitors.

Taber has been one of America's stars for the past five years. As a student of Brown University, he showed enough class to entitle him to a place on the team that represented the United States in the Olympic games at Stockholm in 1912. He finished second in England's great race, finishing ahead of his team-mates, Abel Kiviat and John Paul Jones, the latter the holder of the world's amateur record at that time.

The Brown runner was second to Jones when the Cornell man set his mark of 4:14 2-5.

Taber was selected as one of the American Rhodes scholars and spent a couple of years at Oxford University, where he was a team-mate of Jackson. He was a member of the Oxford relay team that came to this country last year and won from Pennsylvania in a grueling contest in which the Dutch was so close that there was almost a riot when the judges awarded the verdict to the English quartette.

This year Taber has been showing wonderful form. In the try-outs to select an Eastern team to journey to the national championships he won the mile in the phenomenal time of 4:15 1-5 in spite of a soggy track. That this performance was not a fluke in the pan has been demonstrated by Taber's record-breaking run of last Friday, when he broke all records, professional and amateur, for the mile and finished in 4:12 3-5.

Another athlete of world-wide fame is on his way to San Francisco, "Ted" Meredith, who runs for the University of Pennsylvania during college seasons, and represents the Meadowbrook Club in vacation times. It is with the Eastern team that is headed this way. Meredith is the holder of the world's record for 800 meters made at the Olympic games in 1912. He won that race from as fine a field of half-milers as ever tested the scratch.

In the intercollegiate games this spring Meredith won the quarter and half mile races in fast times, a feat that has not been accomplished for twenty years. He has expressed a desire to make a try for the quarter mile record held by Maxey Lang, and the local directors of athletics are eager to give him the opportunity. Lang's record of 47 seconds was made on a race track straightaway, and it is possible to give Meredith a chance at the record on the speedway which surrounds the exposition athletic field.

George Parker, the Olympic Club's great sprinter, is willing to run with Meredith and take a chance at the record himself. Parker can run a quarter in great style and his performance last year in defeating Howard Drew at 220 yards and setting a record of 21-1-5 seconds for the distance would indicate that Parker has a chance of getting into the twilight in the two furlong event.

The team that is coming from the East includes many famous performers besides Taber and Meredith. Alvin Meyer, James Kuhlmann, Tom Halpin and others are known throughout the country. The field event men are high class ones and the hurdlers expected to gather their share of the laurels.

From the Middle West, Rocky Mountain, Southern and Northwestern associations strong teams will be sent, and the Pacific and South Pacific bodies will have powerful representations to combat the outside invasion.

The athletic committee in charge of the exposition games, consisted of William P. Humphrey, John Elliott and Dr. E. C. McCormell, is endeavoring to arrange for the use of the horse track for the proposed special attempt on the world's amateur record for the quarter mile.

Pond lilies have been less abundant this year than ever before. Lovers of these wax-like and fragrant blossoms blame this scarcity onto the heavy rains that have fallen during the month of July. These rains they maintain have swollen the ponds and streams to such an extent that opening buds and blossoms have been literally drowned out.

Harold Grace passed today in Boston and Quincy, Mass.

PROPOSED SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

Kansas City, August 3.—All of commercial Kansas City is being lined up by E. M. Bainter, principal of the Kansas City Polytechnic Institute, in the interest of the proposed school of commerce next season. Mr. Bainter will try to have students taken in by firms for two or three months of the school year as apprentices.

An advisory committee of some of Kansas City's leading business men met with Mr. Bainter and the board of education to discuss the incompetency of high school graduates and the methods of correcting the deficiencies. Penmanship, spelling, and arithmetic were declared the weakest points of the young employees.

"The first two questions are: 'How much does it pay?' and 'What are the hours,'" said Fred Wolfman, the grocer. "There seems to be no desire to prove worthy of greater trust and more money by honest efforts to improve and learn."

HIS JOKE LANDS HIM IN PRISON

Evansville, Aug. 2.—A little German joke at an inopportune time brought two months in prison on bread and water to William Kuhlmann, of this city, and insults and cruelties to his wife that caused her hair to turn white, according to the story he tells.

Kuhlmann, who is of German birth, was manager for an English syndicate on the island of Trinidad, a British possession, when the war broke out. His wife was a native of Venezuela and prominently connected. They lived in the interior.

"In August, last year, I went to the city of Port-au-Prince to meet a mail steamer," said Kuhlmann. "I knew nothing of war being declared. I saw the English chief of police and some negro policemen polishing some old muzzle-loading cannon in the public square and asked what was to be done with them. The chief replied: 'We are getting ready to blow up your German warships.' What have our warships been doing to you? I asked. On being told that war had been declared, I inquired who was at war now, and the chief replied, 'Germany and the Universe.'"

"Poor Universe," I said and hunched. Kuhlmann declares that the chief then struck him in the face and the negro policemen, pounced upon him and placed him in prison where some 200 other Germans were confined.

Kuhlmann said that his wife subsequently was insulted and called vile names by negro cops, when she sought information concerning his whereabouts.

"They grabbed my wife and tore her clothes from her body, and, while a white sergeant looked on, those negroes led her naked through the street. They held her while her little boy was kicked like a football," said Kuhlmann. "His ribs were broken and for six weeks he was between life and death."

Kuhlmann says he finally escaped on the night of Sept. 30, when the guard was drunk. After climbing over the prison wall Kuhlmann, with other Germans, found a small sailboat in the harbor and started for the coast of Venezuela, thirty-five miles away.

From Venezuela Kuhlmann went to Porto Rico and there caught an American steamer to New York. He was without money, but found friends.

Afterwards he was joined by Mrs. Kuhlmann and their five-year-old son.

The smart girls are now wearing a snappy combination of coat and hat made up of fancy colored acetone and it makes quite a pretty combination.

UNCEASING MISERY

Some Portsmouth Kidney Sufferers Get Little Rest or Comfort.

There is little sleep, little rest, little peace for many a sufferer from kidney trouble. Life is one continual round of pain. You can't rest at night when there's kidney backache. You suffer twinges and "stabs" of pain, annoying urinary disorders, lameness and nervousness. You can't be comfortable at work with darting pains and blinding dizzy spells. Neglect these ailments and serious troubles may follow. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of disorder. Thousands have testified to their merit.

Proof in Portsmouth testimony: Mrs. John M. Smart, 172 Gates St., Portsmouth, says: "I suffered from kidney trouble. I had sharp pains in the small of my back, which at times changed to a dull, grinding ache. If I exerted myself, my suffering was more severe. I felt tired nearly all the time and had little energy. I tried various medicines without success until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Phillips' Pharmacy. Two boxes improved my condition in every way."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Smart had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

PARISIANS BELIEVE WAR IS A MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE

Crowds of French People and Tourists Make Pilgrimage to Points of Vantage Behind the Lines and Hold Week-End Parties.

Paris, August 2.—Parisians have become so used to the war that they are now taking great interest in it as a magnificent spectacle. Daily crowds of French people and tourists from England and America make pilgrimages to points of vantage behind the lines, and gay week-end parties are held.

The following letter comes from a hotel near Boulogne-Sur-Mer:

"If you would focus the war, or that large part of it which is collected at the Base, come to the hotel.

"In all wars of course from Seaford to Capetown—there is just one hotel which is so to say, a universal foyot a sort of Charing Cross where everyone meets eventually and in the end, it is a Vanity Fair, perhaps also a Slough of Despond and Delectable Mountain, where pilgrims of all types and two sexes justly and unjustly, where in a flood of khaki and brassards and women's uniforms some few civilians go astray, where the incoming and outgoing hero relaxes for a moment his heroism, where comedy frogs tragedy in the ribs, where sentiment turns up holy eyes at quiet courage and where all the melody of actors, interrupted in their parts by the hoofs of steamers, the hum of hydro-planes, and the tramp of route marches are apt to miss their cues in the fog of general rumor and in-correctible chatter.

"Could any one tell what sort of piece, in what country, he was asked to watch? Was he assisting His Majesty's 'Comedie Francaise, the Empire, or merely Arranged?' "

"Listen for a moment at random to some chattering groups.

"Who would have thought of meeting you here?"

"All the meetings begin like that; the one armed colonel who had met his friend since Dugout in '84, or the infant cavalry subaltern who ran into his Eton friend's second sister now tracing missing men at a base office, or the cold old ex-major of something ending in Chester who exchanged questions with his famous statesman and the convalescence of their respective sons.

"The greeting was followed in this particular instance by a flood of questions and answers. Who have you come to see? Is it the brother or the husband who is wounded? What? Not both? Impossible. The two of them on different floors of No. 7 hospital? Both shrapnel and in the shoulder. All shoulders do well. And what heroes they will be! Why am I here? Oh, I'm running a feed the birds stall. You know. Coffee and cigarettes and bread and butter at peace—and plenty prices. Started with $25 capital in a waiting room. Now built bath houses and stalls regardless and feed them by the hundred. Oh soldiers, all soldiers of sorts. The difference is that all the fighters say, 'Thank you, miss,' and the Base fellows are apt to grouse. The army had thoughts of killing us off. We started in September. They thought about it till April, and are now doing the pace. However they won't kill me in a hurry. Might as well try and kill the Y. M. C. A. who do a roaring trade in the same business. We have a tragedy a day from bad temper and starvation and a score from drunkenness. But if any of your friends want to send us something, plump for boxing gloves and punch balls.

"The room was full of people with amazing brassards on their arms, red white, treble and even green, and someone was telling the standard story of the newcomer who asked an habits at the base how to do something or other. The answer began glibly in the prevalent idiom of initials.

"Oh I should go to T. C. O who will introduce you to the D. A. D. R. T. who will refer the matter to G. H. Q. and then—But this was too much for the questioner.

"Excuse me," he said, "I'm off to have a D. H. and S."

If he had gone on this mission at the moment he would have found two airmen, with their feet on the brass rail of the American bar, deciding an orange squash and discussing earnestly whether it was worse to be shelled in the air or the trenches. They decided in favor of the air.

"From this they diverged to the obtuseness of certain aerial observers who had to see a battery from all angles and make figure of eight above it before they could decide whether it was a moving machine or a manure heap. However in spite of the observers they were doomed to carry and the shrapnel that was always puncturing their wings and missing their tank and the ground fog and the new German air colossus, they were quite decided that the air was the place of places and their job the picked job. And it is a fact that of all the men of all types who pass through this vanity fair the airmen are the most distinct type. The air has lent them its peculiar qualities of light and breadth, as the sailor has borrowed the salt of his character from the expenses of the unharvested sea.

"With their noses on the same brass rail lay two great dogs a lurcher with every air of aristocratic in his form and manner despite his mixed ancestry and a real Irish retriever. One of the masters had come out from his country town to hunt down missing kilt. The other had left the stock exchange to blossom into a train conducting officer and wear a red brassard.

"Just got an invitation to shoot grouse on the 15th" said one; and a neighbor countered with a quotation from his wife's letter, which he took from his pocket and read: "If you don't come home soon the patch of Bismarck will be over, and as our only gardener went off today to make a fuss its likely to be the last you will see. Besides you appetite is wanted. Even the village can't eat all the vegetables we planted."

TWO NEW BOOKS

"THE NUTRITION OF THE HOUSEHOLD"

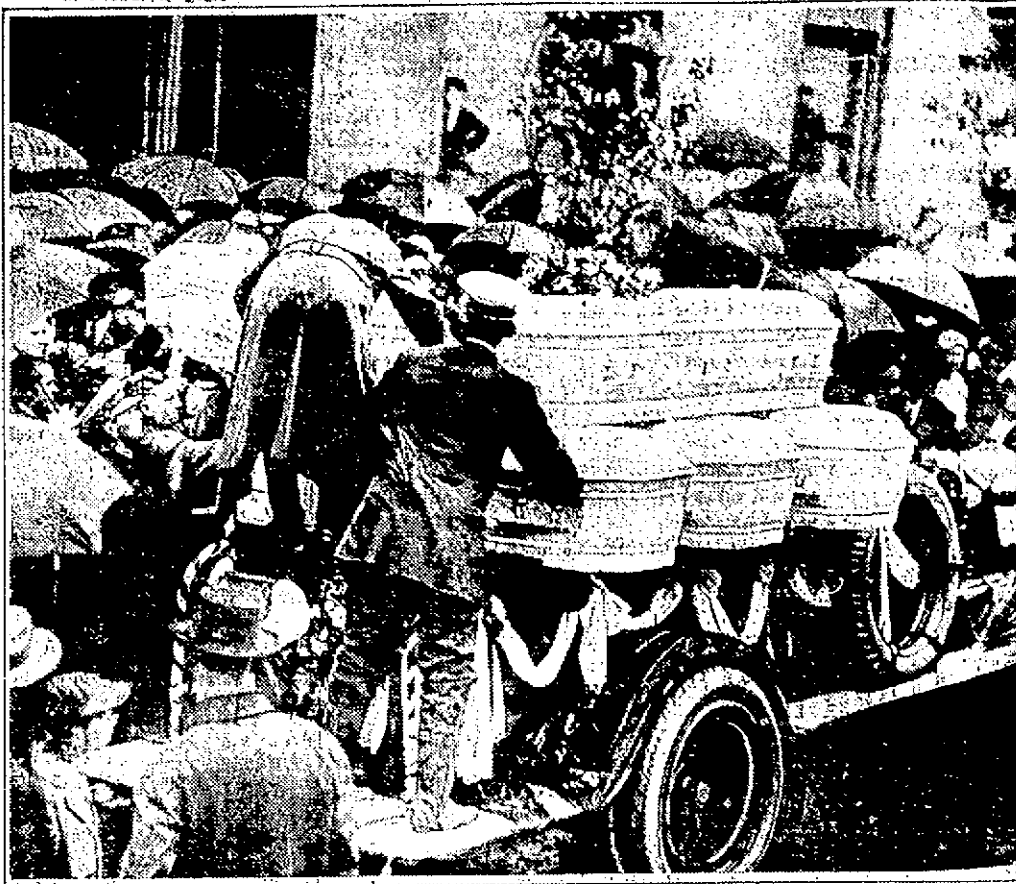

"The Nutrition of the Household," by Edwin Tenney Brewster and Lilian Brewster, (Houghton Mifflin Co. $1.00 net), will prove of immense value to the housekeeper getting twenty-one meals a week. It contains the information found in every text book, but it has been put into a new form, a readable and interesting form for the non-technical reader that fills a long-felt want.

"DOODLES"

"Doodles," by Emma C. Dowd, (Houghton Mifflin Co. $1.00 net) will prove one of the most delightful little stories published this year. The little hero, "The Sunshine Boy," a hopeless cripple, is one of the most lovable little clowns that one would care to meet. His smile carries cheer to those who are far better off than he. The story is full of pathos and humor of the better kind and there is a pretty romance running through the book.

ENTIRE CITY OF CHICAGO IN MOURNING AS SIX HUNDRED OF EASTLAND'S VICTIMS ARE BURIED

FUNERAL OF EASTLAND VICTIMS

While all Chicago mourned funerals of 600 victims of the Eastland disaster were held in Chicago in one day. An official mourning proclamation was issued by Mayor Thompson, who returned from San Francisco and took charge of the relief work. Most of the victims of the disaster were women and children. In the accompanying illustration is shown an auto truck laden with coffins containing the victims.

CRUISER DESTROYERS NEXT

Department Plans for Six Big Vessels Accepted By Board

Washington, Aug. 2.—Plans for six big cruiser destroyers, authorized by the last Congress, have been approved. They will be the first vessels the design of which will have been influenced by the war in Europe, and the department's statement says that naval information from abroad was closely scrutinized by the constructors before the plans were drawn.

The vessels will have a maximum sustained sea speed of thirty knots; they will displace 125 tons, measure 310 feet over all, have a width of thirty feet, seven inches and a mean draft of eight feet. Provision has been made in the design to decrease rolling and pitching at sea, making the boats more comfortable for their crews.

Each destroyer will carry four triple torpedoes, a main battery of four four-inch guns, those in the waist mounted high enough to increase their efficiency in rough water, and two one-pounder anti-aircraft guns. Bids for construction will be opened Oct. 5. Battleships Reach Fair Via Canal.

The battleships Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin steamed into San Francisco yesterday afternoon, and amid the cheering of thousands of spectators, dropped anchor off the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The squadron, which came via the Panama Canal, brought 300 midshipmen on annual practice cruise. The Ohio broke a propeller blade coming up the coast, and will proceed to Mare Island today for repairs.

San Francisco society, however, is not going to spoil the 300 midshipmen who come on the battleships, if Rear Admiral William P. Fullam, squadron commander, can help it. The midshipmen are to be given liberal shore leave.

Mr. Hoynes announced that he was working in harmony with Federal officers.

The finding of three more bodies in the hull of the Eastland yesterday brought the total to 330, and led to a renewal of the search today. Several divers were sent into the boat, where it was reported that a number of bodies were seen but could not be recovered, because they were entangled in wire netting.

GERMAN DECISION NOT YET MADE

Berlin (wireless to Sayville, N. Y.), Aug. 2.—The German government has not yet decided whether the American note regarding Germany's submarine warfare will be answered.

The foregoing statement is among the items of news prepared today by the Overseas News Agency for transmission by wireless telegraph abroad. The statement in full follows:

"Notwithstanding reports to the contrary the German government has not yet decided whether the American note regarding German submarine warfare will be answered. The government awaits the text of the announced American note to Great Britain before deciding what further steps will be taken."

VILLA SAYS, "TO HELL WITH AMERICA"

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 2.—"The American government can go to hell!" declared General Francisco Villa, addressing a gathering of foreign merchants at Chihuahua City Saturday.

Shortly afterward he confiscated a number of their stores. Forty-two Mexican merchants were jailed after the conference held Saturday for the purpose of raising a forced loan. Six were executed. Such was the substance of reports brought here today by foreign merchants.

MILITARY PREPAREDNESS WILL BE DISCUSSED

At Conference of Governors of the Various States to Be Held in Boston This Month, According to Official Announcement.

Boston, Mass., August 3.—Military preparedness for national defense is to be discussed by the governors of the various states at the annual conference of governors to be held in Boston August 21, 22, and 23, according to the program announced today by M. C. Riley, secretary of the Governors' Conference. While this conference includes in its membership the governors and former governors of the 48 states, the Boston meeting is to have added significance by reason of the fact that adjutant generals of many states who will attend and participate in the discussion of plans for increasing the size and increasing the efficiency of the militia of the states as part of the national defense.

The discussion is to be opened by Governor James P. Mendenhall of New Jersey who will read a paper on "The Relation of the State to the National Defense."

Others who will participate in the discussion are Governors Charles S. Whitman of New York, Frank B. W. Willis of Ohio, Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, Ernest Lister of Washington, W. S. Hammond of Minnesota, and former Governors William Hodges Mann of Virginia and Elias M. Ammons of Colorado.

"The Mexican situation and the European war doubtless have caused the governors of many states to ponder their own and their state's responsibilities in relation to military preparedness," said Secretary Riley "All the 48 governors were consulted in the preparation of the program for the coming conference. Practically all asked that some phase of the efficiency of our citizen soldiery be discussed, thus displaying a keen interest on the part of the states in the problem now confronting the nation—an interest so keen as to amount to a recognition by the states of a degree of responsibility."

"Utterances of many public men, magazine articles and the current news carried by the daily press, all indicate that there is an increasing conviction that Americans as individuals and as a nation should be capable of acting in self defense. Many of the governors feel that the time is ripe for some uniformity of action in cooperation with the national government for improving the national defense. This problem is no longer the simple one that it was one hundred years ago. Now, more than ever before, there is general acceptance of the doctrine that every American boy should receive training which will equip him to become an efficient unit in the nation's defense. This is not a new doctrine, but is merely emphasized at this time by the awful spectacle of all Europe engaged in war. Readiness on the part of the citizen to serve his country clearly was contemplated by the constitution, which provides that congress may call forth the citizens to serve as militia men to quell insurrection to repel invasion. Many governors feel that if every young man is subject under the law to be called upon for military duty, that it is important that such training should be provided as will fit young men to perform their service well."

Other subjects to be discussed at the coming conference are: "The Executive Budget," "Economy and Efficiency in the State," "Taxation," "Conservation," "Uniformity in the Fundamental of Workmen's Compensation Acts of the Different States," "Duties and Responsibilities of Governors in Dealing With Prisoners."

EQUILIBRIUM TEST FOR LAKE PASSENGER BOATS

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield stated today that an equilibrium test of all passenger carrying steamers on the Great Lakes would be made, and that the work of steamboat inspectors during the last fifteen years would be investigated. John A. Coffer of New Orleans; John K. Bulger, San Francisco; H. M. Seely, New York; Eugene O'Donnell, Boston; all steamboat inspectors, and a fifth inspector to be named later, will be brought here to assist in the work, the secretary said.

The investigation of the record of the inspection service will be made by a board on which the traveling public will be represented. It will follow lines suggested by Lieut. Gov. Barrett O'Hara, with whose views Mr. Redfield said he was in accord. The sixth session of the Federal board of inquiry into the Eastland disaster was held. Secretary Redfield was expected today to go before the Federal grand jury, to tell of the work of the Federal steamboat inspection service. Secretary Redfield's board resumed its sessions, but it was not known what character this inquiry would assume in view of an order by Judge Landis of the United States court Saturday, refusing permission to William Nicholas, steamboat inspector, to examine the hull of the Eastland. Secretary Redfield said his investigation would go on in spite of this order. He is expected to ask the Federal court for permission to examine such witnesses as he needs. State's Attorney Hoynes is prepared to present to the county grand jury evidence tending to show the character of men employed as members of the crew of the Eastland.

The French Government, through the Minister of War, approved by the Health Dept., ordered 200,000 boxes Cadum Ointment for use in the Army and Navy.

If you have skin trouble, get a box of Cadum Ointment and apply a small quantity to the affected part. It will stop the itching at once. People who have suffered for years from irritation of the skin are comforted and able to sleep soon after Cadum Ointment is applied. It acts quickly upon eczema, pimples, sores, blotches, eruptions, scaly-skin, itching piles, ringworm, chafings, etc. Cadum Ointment is sold by druggists at 10c and 25c a box.

Public Extravagance.

This paper has in the past called attention to the fact that the people are chiefly responsible for public extravagance and consequent high taxes, and its position on this matter is substantiated by an observant writer who in one of the leading newspapers of a large eastern city illustrates the point by citing a concrete case in which an unusually large appropriation was made for roads by the legislature of the state after it had pledged itself to the strictest economy.

This pledge was made at the beginning of the session and was cordially approved by the people and press of the state, who for years have noted with some anxiety the constant and rapid growth of the tax rate. The emphatic promise of economy was accepted with a sense of relief, but what was the outcome? The legislature had not been long in session before there was introduced a bill providing for an immense appropriation for roads in a certain section of the state. The people of that part of the state were of course solidly in favor of the measure. It is always so when appropriations and improvements are to come "our way." Thousands of voters were directly interested in the success of the measure, and the result was that the legislators who had been shouting for economy vied with one another in support of the bill, each party evidently being determined that the other should not receive the exclusive credit for its passage. The bill went through with flying colors and the result was an appropriation that looked like anything but economy, and one that will swell the state tax rate for years to come. Good roads are a good thing, but such an amount would never have been appropriated at one time if it had not been for the pressure brought to bear on the legislature by the tax payers themselves.

The explanation of public extravagance is extremely simple. The public, like most individuals, wants everything in sight and does not stop to count the cost till the tax bills come in. Then there is a howl of protest, followed in many instances by the retirement to private life of competent and conscientious officials because to the best of their ability they carried out the wishes of those who placed them in office.

The saying, "Charity begins at home," applies equally well to economy. When public economy is genuinely demanded it will come, and not before. And the demand must come from those who foot the bills.

Five West Virginia legislators who were sentenced in 1913 to terms of from five to six years in prison for accepting bribes in connection with the election of a United States senator have been pardoned by the governor on the ground that they have been punished enough. The frequency with which pardons are passed out these days would indicate that either the courts or the pardoning powers do not know their business, the result being that a prison sentence means nothing definite whatever.

A Delaware woman recently gave an elaborate birthday party for a horse. The employees of the estate were sumptuously entertained, the horse was gaily decorated and fed on cake and ice cream, and the affair cost a nice sum of money. And all this in a country where in spite of its boasted opportunities and prosperity there are many hungry children.

It is predicted by some that after the close of the war there will be the greatest economic struggle between the United States and the European nations that the world has ever seen. This does not fit well with the theory that the present conflict will be the last great war, for the whole world is laboring under the belief that "trade follows the flag."

There is a ranch in Arizona through which runs the boundary line between the United States and Mexico, and the Mexicans paid no attention to this line when they ran off a lot of horses a few days ago. The cowboys have been reinforced and unless the horses are promptly returned they will "intervene."

It is earnestly to be hoped that politics will not be able to sidetrack the truth in the Eastland investigation, or to sidetrack justice after the truth has been revealed.

Those who predicted that we were not going to have any summer this year are not shouting "I told you so" to any great extent just now.

The French are now working German prisoners of war as harvest hands. The French have always been noted as a thrifty people.

Dog days are living fully up to their reputation.

CURRENT OPINION

Spiritual Life of the World Will Be Awakened and Benefited by War.

The far-reaching effect of the war on Christianity and the morals of mankind is almost a question too stupendous to discuss.

It often happens—indeed, it usually happens—that these world-shattering conflicts and calamities only serve to draw mankind close to God. It is hard at this time, when nearly the whole of the civilized world is plunged into sorrow, when war and desolation stalk broadcast over Europe—then it is hard, I say, to get away from the immediate sadness and seemingly ever-present grief and believe that good will come of it.

But, looking back at previous struggles, it can be seen that at their conclusion the effect has been not to weaken and lower mankind, but out of the ruins of the havoc man has returned to the promotion of the forward movement of civilization with renewed zeal. The fact that in the midst of tribulation and affliction the human creature instinctively turns to God gives me hope in this present war.

Just as, after former wars, men have come nearer to God, so I hope that the outcome of this strife will prove only good and that humanity will gain greater clemency and a keener insight into the all-wisdom of God.

War in itself is often a great evil. There is, however, by the very nature of an evil, some good in it. You can have a perfect good, but no complete evil.

—By James Cardinal Gibbons.

DR. CLARK DESCRIBES PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH

Portland, Oregon, August 3. Speaking before the 15th annual meeting of the American Osteopathic Association, Dr. H. E. Clark of Indianapolis, described methods of nearly painless child birth which he said had been tried with marked success, and which do not depend on the use of drugs.

"During the past three years," said Dr. Clark, "we have conducted nearly five hundred deliveries according to osteopathic methods with remarkable success. Our technique has been gradually improved and if some multimillionaire would come to our assistance and endow a maternity hospital where we could carry on our work under ideal conditions I am sure in a very short time our work would astonish the world."

"That the publicity accorded to light sleep aroused a great interest in painless obstetrics there is no gainsaying. This has stimulated osteopathic physicians to increased efforts along this line and has enabled them to prove definitely that even better results may be secured by non-drug methods and without danger to mother or baby. We hear much about the mother going down into the valley of the shadow, and this is actually what she does when twilight sleep is administered. With our methods of prophylactic treatment and pressure anesthesia the mother does not 'go down into the valley' but passes through labor in a normal manner with but a fraction of the usual suffering."

"Magazine writers have claimed that twilight sleep babies are healthier and smarter than ordinary babies and that a race of superior people will result from the use of the powerful narcotic drugs employed. This is absolute tommyrot. Any person with a grain of common sense must know that children brought into the world drugged and nearly lifeless, as so many twilight sleep babies are, cannot be in any way superior, if indeed they are equal, to natural-born babies. Osteopathic babies are healthy and lively from the moment of birth and certainly stand more chance with their twilight brethren in the race for life."

"The claim has also been made that twilight sleep mothers need not remain in bed longer than three or four days. Osteopathically delivered mothers usually feel well enough to rise on the second day. We do not allow them to do so, however, as the internal organs are not yet in a condition where such a procedure would be safe. If a man went about on all fours as the animals do, early rising would be perfectly permissible, but since he assumes the upright posture it is dangerous, regardless of the mode of delivery employed. Osteopathic after treatment restores the organs to normal sooner than any other known method and saves the patient from consulting the gynecologist at a later date."

HEAVIEST RAIN IN FORTY-FOUR YEARS

Massachusetts Farmers Still Complaining of Scarcity.

Portions of eastern New England in July experienced the heaviest rainfall in a deluge since the government began making weather observations in this section of the country forty-four years ago, according to official reports received.

New rainfall records were established at Portland and Boston and the old mark was all but equalled at Concord, N. H.

Farther back in the country the precipitation was not quite so heavy, but every government station in the district excepting Block Island showed a record at midnight Saturday of considerably above the normal for the month.

The absence of excessive heat, an unusual number of cloudy days, and the prevalence of fog on the coast, were among the other features of the month.

As New England in recent years has suffered from droughts, the unusual amount of moisture during the last 31 days is expected to be of material benefit to agriculture, especially if the next six weeks are productive of the customary amount of sunshine.

The rainfall in inches for the month at ten government stations, Albany being included in order to show the weather in western New England was as follows:

Portland 10.84; Concord, N. H., 10.24; Boston 8.55; Greenville, Me., 6.31; Hartford, Conn., 6.35; Providence 6.35; Burlington, Vt., 5.16; Northfield, Vt., 5.22; Albany 5.05; Eastport, Me., 7.35; Block Island, R. I., 5.9; Nantucket 1.32. As the average July rainfall in all the stations for past years is only a trifle over 3.5 inches, it will be seen that Block Island and Nantucket alone showed deficiencies.

The heaviest previous July rainfall for New England stations including Albany which have been taken observations for more than 30 years, was as follows:

Hartford 15.35 inches in 1897; Eastport 7.07 inches in 1893; Block Island 8.67 inches in 1895; Concord 5.56 inches in 1897; Burlington 8.45 in 1897; Northfield 8.04 inches in 1897; Boston 6.36 inches in 1889; Albany 6.78 inches in 1874.

Despite the heavy rains of the past 31 days, Boston still has a deficiency of 1.21 inches since the first of the year. Up state farmers are still complaining of the scarcity of water.

"The heaviest record rainfall in any one month in previous years shows 16.35 inches at Hartford in July, 1897; 19.37 inches at Concord in September, 1888; and 8.81 inches at Boston in October, 1877.

IMPORTS LESS IMPORTANT

"Imported" is a less important word this Fall than usual. We have learned by necessity how to do many things for ourselves. The new goods will be doubly interesting because they carry with them this note of self-improvement. If you watch the advertising from day to day in this newspaper you will see the trend of the times. Buy at home the things made at home is coming to be a sort of slogan of the times.

FARMERS LOOKING FOR WIVES

Topeka, Kansas, August 3.—Prosperous young bachelor farmers of Sitka, Chuk County, have appealed to Gov. Capper to direct young women—the kind who will make good wives for farmers—there.

The correspondent signed himself "A Sitka Bachelor." He said there was a scarcity of women in that section and that many prosperous young farmers want wives.

FORCIBLE SERMON.

Evangelist Abbott Talks to Large Congregation in the Big Tent.

That the end of time is just upon us was forcefully brought out by Evangelist F. L. Abbott, in a sermon at the Gospel Tent at the corner of South street and Elwyn avenue, Sunday afternoon.

"Many people are asking themselves, 'Why should I be concerned with the second coming of Christ? When is it going to be? Does any one know? Is it near?' Some of the conditions we see in the world are indications that the time is near."

"The Bible says that when these things begin to come to pass that the people are to look up and lift up their heads, for 'your redemption draweth nigh.'"

The minister called the attention of his audience to some of these conditions. He said that the great war in Europe was a sign. "We are living in a time of great enlightenment, and in a time when men would naturally expect to see peace, but instead of that we look across the waters and see Europe bathed in the blood of the armies of eleven nations. The Bible said that the nations would be angry, and they are. This anger is more than in the nations, we find it in the schools, in many homes, and even the churches are not free from this condition. It is a sign of the end."

"There are some people who will deny this. They will say that the world is growing better, that crime is not on the increase, and that there are no indications but that the world will stand for ages to come. Let me tell you that these very people are a sign that it will come to an end. I will read it to you," he said, and then read these words from his Bible, "Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, 'Where is the promise of his coming?' "And this is just what they are saying," he declared.

"That is just what many people were doing in Dayton when the great flood overtook that city. It is on record that the streets were full of people who were laughing at the idea that there might be a flood. What was the result? The flood came. What will be the result of these people scoffing at the thought of Christ coming to earth again? The Bible says that in just such a time as this that Christ will come."

"I do not know when he will come. I do not pretend to know more than is revealed in the Scriptures, but I can tell you that now is the time to prepare to meet that day."

"Of course, there are many people who do not believe in the Bible. These same people believe the newspapers. They believe that there is a war in Europe because they read about it in the newspapers. They have never been there, but they believe it just the same. When I read similar things out of the Bible they are ready to say that they do not believe it."

Mr. Abbott then read several newspaper statements, editorials, etc., showing the condition of the world. He closed by making an appeal to the people to use their good judgment and reason in this matter as they would in any other.

Services will continue throughout the week, being held at 7.15 in the evening. The program for the week is:

Monday—The Churches' Greatest Need.

Tuesday—Shattered Dreams of Peace. Peace Palace a Castle in the Air.

Wednesday—God's Plan and Man's Idea in History.

Thursday—Will there Be a Universal Empire—Following this Great War?

Friday—The Christian's Wireless Unshaken by Earth's Warfare.

Sunday, 3 p. m.—Will the United States Be Drawn Into the Great War of Europe?

Sunday evening—Are the Nations of Europe and All the World Facing Armageddon?

These services are free to the public.

UNITED STATES PREPARES TO ESTABLISH PEACE IN MEXICO

Asks Pan-American Co-operation and May Use Force if Necessary to Restore Peace in Afflicted Country.

Washington, August 2.—The United States has decided to ask the cooperation of Central and South America in the next step to restore peace in Mexico. The ambassadors from Argentina, Brazil and Chile, and the ministers from Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala have been asked to confer with Secretary Lansing here Thursday. This announcement was made at the state department tonight.

"On Thursday afternoon there will be an informal conference at the state department to consider the Mexican situation. Those taking part in the conference will be the ambassadors from Brazil, Argentina and Chile, and the three ranking ministers of the Central American republics, namely those of Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala. As to the details which will be considered, nothing can be said at the present time, as the conference will be entirely confidential."

While the state department characterized the coming conference as an informal one, the sentiment has been growing among American officials that the next step in the Mexican situation should be one that will meet the approval of the world and should be taken in concert with the nations of Central and South America, even if in the last event the trend should be toward military action.

The three ambassadors were mediators in the Niagara conference in the summer of 1914. The three ministers are in point of seniority at the head of the Central American legation corps. Action in concert with the Central and South Americans would be in line with President Wilson's plan for a closer relationship between the United States and these countries and is planned to show that the United States considers the Mexican situation the common cause of the Pan-American group and that this government entertains no idea of territorial aggressiveness, but is acting solely as Mexico's nearest powerful friend and neighbor.

Some of the closest observers of the Mexican situation as long ago as last March professed to see the President's plan for Pan-American cooperation when he delivered an address on the Argentine battleship Moreno, and said:

"I want to express my feeling as President of the United States that we are rapidly approaching a day when the Americans will draw together as they never have drawn together before, and that it will be a union not of political ties but understanding of mutual helpfulness."

It was believed that the President was then thinking of joint Pan-American action with regard to Mexico even to join the military operations if necessary.

At this stage however, it is not believed that military operations are being contemplated as a next step. It is known however, that if the situation should come to a pass where armed force might be necessary to open the railroad to Mexico City for protection of the legation and non-combatants, or should an armed occupation be necessary as a prelude to restoration of constitutional government and election, the South and Central Americans probably would receive and welcome an invitation to share the work of the United States.

How the factions in Mexico would regard such a joint action is a matter of dispute. On one hand the suggestion has been met with the declaration that some of the South American countries typified the so-called "denial" element. On the other hand the leaders have professed to be ready to embrace any plan for peace which included as its first real object the maintenance of the territorial sovereignty of Mexico, free elections and restoration of the government to the constitutional line from which it departed with the death of President Madero.

The Thursday conference is the step which President Wilson and the cabinet had in mind when a few weeks ago a statement was issued to the American people on the Mexican situation and to the Mexican leaders themselves.

When President Wilson went to the summer White House at Cornish, it was expected that nothing would be done until his return. The recent almost knife-edge developments in Mexico City, however, are believed to have influenced the announcement of action at this time.

The state department was disturbed today by a report that General Villa had driven the Americans and others of the foreign merchants from Chihuahua, confiscated their property and executed six of their Mexican colleagues. American consular agents were called upon for immediate reports. Protests came from diplomatic representatives of several foreign powers.

Colville Barchin, in charge of the British embassy in the absence of the ambassador called at the state department to protest against the reported seizure by Villa of property of British subjects and their expulsion from the country. After his visit Secretary Lansing conferred with Asst. Secy.

HARVEST HANDS ARE MAKING FORTUNES

Collinswood Falls, Kansas, August 3.—Four harvest hands in Ford county are making fortunes, according to R. B. Harris of this city, who has just returned from a motoring trip to Colorado. These four harvest hands who were working between the towns of Kinsley and Dodge City were contented with good wages they were making from the wheat harvest until they discovered one rainy day that there was easier money in pulling motor car tourists out of a big mud hole on the Santa Fe trail. Five dollars a car was the schedule price for which they held up the stranded motor car owners for the five or ten minutes service they rendered in pulling his machine out of the mud.

The harvesters had a good strong team of horses and a wagon, besides a collection of shovels and other mud-digging tools. They would take up their stand on a hill about half a mile from the mudhole. When a car was seen approaching they would drive slowly toward the mudhole, generally applying a few minutes after the motor car had gotten into the mud. They are reported to have made $35 for one day's work.

BROTHERLY DEVOTION

Darwin, Kansas, August 3.—Winn Porter, a young farmer is recovering in a hospital here from injuries received while trying to save his paralyzed younger brother from death in a stalled automobile on the track in front of a rapidly approaching Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train. The devotion of the young farmer for his helplessly crippled brother Dewey, aged 43, has seldom been equalled. Every day Winn takes his brother in his arms, carries him into the automobile and takes him to town to see a physician. His machine became stalled on the track and Winn could not start it again. Winn could easily have saved himself by stepping aside, but while trying to lift his helpless brother from the trolley the train struck them. Dewey died and Winn is almost heartbroken.

ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

Kansas City, August 3.—A branch of the National Association for the advancement of colored people of the nation is being established here, Miss Katherine M. Johnson being in charge of the work. The organizers say they only want to keep down racial feeling and possible persecution, asking no favors, privileges or special advantages. One of the principal issues is to secure the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the presentation of motion picture plays that tend to increase racial prejudice.

The association has the backing of social welfare workers, white and black, throughout the country. Jane Addams of Chicago, John E. Millholland, O. W. Willard of New York, Northfield Story, Boston, and scores of others are aiding in the movement.

GAVE PARTY

In Honor of Little Girl From This City.

About seventy young people assembled at the home of Mrs. Estelle B. Marden in Washington street, North Chelmsford, last Friday afternoon, when a party was held in honor of little Miss Helen Brouillette, a niece of the hostess, who is visiting this locality.

This not only proved a good way to get the young girl acquainted with her little neighbors but it also afforded all who were present an opportunity to spend a most pleasant afternoon.

Dances were played and the party was made all the more enjoyable by the serving of dainty refreshments at different intervals. The affair was successful to such an extent that it will give little Helen something to talk about when she returns to her home in Portsmouth, N. H.

Mrs. Alice B. Courtney and Mrs. Olla C. Jackson assisted Mrs. Marden in entertaining the little folks.—Lowell, Mass., paper.

PLEASANT SURPRISE ON BIRTHDAY

Guests at Ash Knoll Farm Entertain Their Hostess in Pleasing Manner.

A most enjoyable surprise party was given Mrs. Lewis E. Rice of Ash Knoll Farm, Kittery Point, by her guests on Monday evening. The affair was given in celebration of the 60th anniversary of her birth. It was arranged by Mrs. Edith Mills and Mrs. Eva Lough, of Boston. There were forty present including relatives, friends and guests of Mrs. Rice. The evening was passed in a very enjoyable manner with vocal and instrumental music adding to the occasion. Mrs. Susan Watson of New York presided at the piano. Several selections were read by Miss Katherine Lough, and various ones present favored the company with vocal numbers.

During the evening Mrs. Rice was presented with a beautiful hand-painted china tea set, and a purse of $27, by her guests. The recipient was much surprised but soon recovered her composure and in a neat speech thanked them for the gifts.

A dainty collation of cake and ice cream, the latter being furnished by a Boston caterer, was served.

The evening, passed only too quickly and at a late hour the party broke up all wishing Mrs. Rice many happy returns of the day.

HAS ARRANGED A TENTATIVE PROGRAM

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, August 3.—Restoration of a constitutional government in Mexico within sixty days has been determined upon by President Wilson. That is the real reason for the conference arranged for Thursday afternoon between diplomatic representatives of Latin-American powers and Secretary of State Lansing.

It was learned this afternoon that the United States has arranged a tentative plan which will be discussed at this conference and which if accepted may end the troubles of Mexico. According to the best advices obtainable, the chief proposition will be the immediate recognition of a temporary president who will not be Carranza, Villa or Zapata. He is to be a former member of Madero's cabinet in order that legitimate succession can be provided for inasmuch as it is recognized that Huerta's power never was legal.

TO BUILD UP MERCHANT MARINE

(Special to The Herald)

Cornish, August 3.—A new and vigorous effort is going to be made to build up a merchant marine when Congress opens. This was made plain today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, who declared that the ship purchase bill will be revived in the same form which it was presented to Congress at the last session.

The Democratic party is pledged to urge our merchant marine," said the Secretary. "While I do not know exactly what form the campaign will take, I am positive it will meet with the approval of the nation."

Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo left today for Boston.

HIS EIGHTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY

Theodore J. Deverson, one of the city's most esteemed residents is today quietly observing the 89th anniversary of his birth. Many friends, relatives and neighbors called at his home on New Castle avenue and extended greetings. Mr. Deverson is enjoying excellent health considering his age and he finds much delight in showing his work in a garden at the home, that is certainly a thing of beauty for the eye to gaze upon.

He was for many years a locomotive engineer on the old Portland, Saco and Portsmouth railroad, also the Eastern railroad and his reminiscences of Portsmouth as an early railroad center are decidedly interesting.

BUSY AT BOSTON

It is many years since I have seen such activity as now exists in the Charlestown navy yard. The yard fairly bristles with fighting machines of all colors, sizes and kinds; great cruises are being along big guns of huge calibre; destroyers are tied up in flocks at the pier, and the new supply ship is a veritable hive of industry.

The mammoth framework support is practically completed, and inside the big ship which will be one of the navy's finest, is fast assuming shape. And not the least of the engines of war is the newest destroyer, the Wanda worth, which went into commission recently within an hour after she was docked.—Observer Citizen, Boston Post.

WILD MAN SEEN IN KANSAS

Hutchinson, Kansas, August 3.—A wild man who sleeps in a nest of leaves and grass in a tree has been seen in the north district, ten miles north of Hutchinson. He shrieks and runs whenever other persons approach him. He wears his hair long and goes without clothing except tattered trousers and fragments of a shirt. He is believed to live on berries and green corn. A searching party may be formed. He is believed to be demented.

BRAKEMAN INJURED EARLY THIS MORNING

Benjamin Pettingell, a Cross street, Somerville, Mass., a Boston & Maine freight brakeman, was injured here early this morning and is now at the hospital. It was found necessary to amputate his left foot, which had been badly crushed as he was stepping off the engine while it was moving, one of the wheels passing over it. He was also suffering from a severe scalp wound.

Pettingell was taken to the Portsmouth Hospital at 1:30 this morning and at 3:00 o'clock was reported resting as comfortably as could be expected considering the amount of blood he had lost.

RUSSIAN HINT NOT TAKEN BY ALLIES ABOUT WARSAW

Suggested Now as Time For Great Crushing Blow--Germans Slowly Advancing--French Claim Slight Gains

London, Aug. 2.—The broad hint in the Russian Daila Sunday that now was a most favorable opportunity for the Anglo-French armies to "initiate active operations" in view of the fact that numerous German troops had just been transferred from the western line to the Warsaw front does not seem likely to be acted upon in time to affect the situation in the East. While Warsaw is still in Russian possession, according to the latest despatches, news of its evacuation is expected at any moment, for nothing has occurred in the past few hours to indicate any other outcome to the German advance. No direct news from Warsaw has been received, but there are increasing indications that Grand Duke Nicholas is withdrawing his army from the Polish salient. There has been heavy fighting on the Narw front, where the Germans have made some progress in the desperate battle which is raging between the Narw and the Oje rivers. Latest reports from Vienna are to the effect that the Russians are retreating further east, pursuing German regiments having passed through Chelm. At the opening of the Russian Daila yesterday the ministers, in their speeches, did not attempt to minimize the gravity of the situation, but all agreed that Russia had not reached the end of her resources. The minister of war summed up his views with the assertion that Russia would stand firm until Warsaw was taken, as Moscow was given up in 1812, in order to insure final victory.

TEUTONS ADVANCE SLOWLY

Petrograd, Aug. 2.—The following official communication was issued: "Below Biala, on the river An in Courland, we fought a desperate engagement with the Germans Friday and Saturday. After numerous fruitless attempts, costing him heavy losses, the enemy succeeded in establishing himself on the right bank of the river near the farm of Jungferhof."

"On the Pomevets road our troops near the village of Darchishki overthrew a German column which had taken the offensive and in the district of the villages of Rudani and Tylmala they repulsed an enemy advance guard, killing several hundred German prisoners and a number of machine guns. The enemy trenches, which fell into our hands, were filled with dead."

"On the Narw front Saturday night the enemy delivered attacks on the eastern bank of the Pissa near the village of Serwatki, near the mouth of the Schinwa. He succeeded in gaining a footing in the latter sector on the left bank of the Narw, but afterward by a vigorous counter-attack, with the bayonet was repulsed and driven back as far as the river."

"The same night the enemy with considerable forces developed an offensive in the Rozan sector against our position between the Narw and the Oje (Orz) river, as well as along the latter. A desperate battle ensued Saturday in which the enemy made much use of asphyxiating gases. After numerous bayonet actions, the Germans succeeded in making a little progress in the Kramnik-Jabine front."

"South of the Oje river the enemy also succeeded in capturing our line of trenches, but afterward by bayonet attacks we drove him back toward his original positions."

"On some sections of the Narw front the enemy in the last few days has engaged for the first time fresh troops."

"To the left of the Vistula and on the Monte-Nadaryn front there was little fighting. On the right flank of the Vistula Saturday morning we fought the Germans who crossed on the old front of Malzevitz-Lobnitz, in a battle in which both sides were alternately the aggressors."

"Between the Vistula and the Bug Saturday evening the enemy delivered vigorous but barren attacks on our positions between the river Vleprz and in the district of Relovetz."

"Between the Cholm and the Bug our troops under the pressure of numerically superior enemy forces, fell back somewhat to the north, after desperate fighting. There is no change in the Bug, Zlota Lapa and Dabeska regions."

ITALIANS HOLD 17,000

Rome, Aug. 2.—Prisoners taken by the Italian forces now number 17,000, including 380 officers, according to an announcement made by the Stefani News Agency. The prisoners came from all parts of Austria-Hungary. While under the surveillance of Italian troops they are under the direct command of their own superiors. Their rations are the same as those served to the Italian soldiers.

General Italian Offensive. Laibach despatch says: "A general Italian offensive is reported to have begun yesterday on the Tyrol, Trentino and Carola front, forcing the Austrians to evacuate some of their strongest positions. Dalmatian regiments which attacked Fyehopt lost sixty per cent of their effectiveness. The Italians have pierced the second Austrian line on the Carso plateau, taking several metres of trenches."

FRENCH CLAIM SLIGHT GAIN. Paris, Aug. 2.—The French War Office this afternoon gave out a statement on the progress of hostilities, which reads as follows:

"The evening of Aug. 1 and the night of Aug. 1-2 were marked by various infantry encounters."

"In the Ardennes districts, after having repulsed several German attacks with hand grenades, we took possession of a section of a trench along the road between Abbeville and Arras, to the north of the national highway running between Bethune and Arras."

"In the vicinity of Souchez the firing has been going on with hand grenades and bombs, but it has brought no change on the front line either to one side or the other."

"In the Champagne district, along the front between Perthes and Neaumur there was yesterday fighting with mines, in which we had the advantage."

"In the Argonne, not far from Marle-Therese and in the vicinity of St. Hubert, the Germans after a spirited fight, in which bombs were used, made several attempts to launch attacks, but they were repulsed."

"On the heights of the Meuse, between Les Eparges and the Colonne trench, the enemy yesterday made three different attacks upon our position. Our artillery and our infantry fire succeeded in checking these attacks."

"Point-a-Mousson and the villages of Malderes and Manoeuvre-sur-Selle were bombarded yesterday from the air with incendiary shells."

No Damage from German Aircraft. The following official communication was issued by the French War Office last night:

"An artillery action of medium intensity has occurred in Ardennes, in the valley of the Aisne; it was more violent northwest of Rheims in the region of the Luxembourg farm, between Chavry and Lefevre, and in the western Argonne, in the region of Fontain aux Charnes and Hill 213."

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle, in the region of La Haye, a German battalion surprised while ascending in the village of Viller-sur-Trey, was subjected to a rapid and very effective fire from several of our batteries."

"Point-a-Mousson and the village of Malderes have been bombarded, but the damage was insignificant."

"German aeroplanes dropped on the plateau of Malzeville, near Nancy, about twenty bombs, which caused neither losses nor damage."

FIRE IN CONSTANTINOPLE. Athens (via London), Aug. 2.—Avalanches here from Constantinople report that 2000 buildings, including the German hospital, filled with wounded soldiers, were destroyed last week by fire.

WILL GERMANY ATTACK ITALY?

General Public Is Anxiously Awaiting Developments in Italy's Controversy With Germany.

Rome, July 2.—The Francophile party which, now, as before the opening of the hostilities, included a large proportion of the elements that nine months had steadily advocated war against Austria, is rather surprised at the strange course things have taken and, above all, at Italy's failure to declare war on Germany.

On the other hand the general public is anxiously awaiting developments in the hope that ultimately a way may be found to confine Italy's controversy with Germany to the mere rupture of diplomatic relations.

Whether this is possible or not, nobody here is prepared to say. The military element maintains that it all depends on the course events take in the East and the results of Germany's campaign against Russia.

The reports reaching Rome via Bucharest and Sophia are anything but reassuring. There appears to be the greatest discrepancy of views between the Archduke Nicholas and his generals, some of whom prefer to resign and return to the comparatively obscure life of garrison commanders in some distant part of Russia rather than lend their co-operation to a plan of campaign which they regarded as absurd and disastrous.

A proof that these reports are well founded and, in the main correct, is afforded by the attitude of the local Russian colony, composed of patriotic writers, artists and scientists.

These Russians have now abandoned the policy of reserve and freely express their disappointment at the outcome of the campaign. According to the reports which have reached them, up to date the army has sustained a loss of nearly four million men, and the entire front line has ceased to exist.

Russian public opinion believes that these appalling losses are chiefly imputable to the Grand Duke, who, after conceiving an admirable plan of campaign failed to employ the large number of troops at his disposal wisely.

Italian military circles are skeptical about the ultimate results of the Russian summer campaign and some officers even fear a complete collapse of the Russian army. Opinions differ as to what Germany would do in this event. The pessimists maintain that in this case Germany would not hesitate a single moment to hurl against Italy part of the troops now engaged along the thousand mile front from Libau to Czernowitz, and that only prolonged resistance on the part of the Russian army would probably in Salandra for having muzzled the press as far as utterances towards Germany are concerned. The newspapers are at liberty to say anything against anybody, frontier Salandra included, but Germany must not be attacked. The reports about German troops participating side by side with Austria, in the war against Italy, are invariably and quickly denied, together with any other story, founded or unfounded, tending to embitter the feelings between the two nations.

But more significant than any other thing is the agreement signed on May 20 according to which during the Austro-Italian war Italy guarantees the life, liberty and property of Germans residing in Italy, while Germany has promised like treatment to the Italians residing in Germany.

The publication of this document by a Swiss paper, and the Italian government's failure to deny it produced here a tremendous sensation. For days the Italian press discussed the probable meaning of this document but no official communication ever came to define its real purport.

Besides, Italy has not yet signed the famous pact of London, by which France, Britain and Russia promise to force Germany to preserve towards her former ally the attitude of moderation she has assumed.

On the other hand the conservative element of the country, which in May was ready to support Signor Giolitti in his efforts to settle amicably Italy's old differences with Austria, has now undertaken a quiet campaign to prevent the war for the completion of Italian independence from degenerating into a war for the preservation of the British Empire.

That the government shares this point of view and is determined to avoid on its part any complication that might lead to a rupture with Germany is evidenced by more than one fact. The Francophile element, for instance, will never forgive Premier Nitti to sign a separate peace. Diplomats admit that a series of agreements exist between Italy and the Allies, or better, between Italy and England, but they add that these agreements will never be enforced unless Germany intervenes against Italy.

The probability is that Italy and England will never reach a final agreement. Some time ago a report circulated that an Italian loan of $200,000,000 destined to meet the expenditure of the first six months of war would be negotiated in London, and later on the meeting at Nice between the English chancellor of the exchequer, McKenna, and Signor Carcano, Italian treasury minister, lent credence to the report.

EXHIBITING OF LIVE STOCK IS PROHIBITED

Commissioner Felker Regulates Animal Entries at State Fairs.

Commissioner Andrew L. Felker of the state department of agriculture has issued an order prohibiting the exhibition of live stock at the New Hampshire state fairs from any states other than Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Through the further order that "no animals owned or usually harbored in these states, that have been outside the combined area inclosed within the boundaries of the three states for any part of sixty days next preceding the first day on which a New Hampshire fair is held shall be eligible to that fair," no animals may be chosen outside of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire and still be eligible to compete for honors in a New Hampshire event.

Commissioner Felker states that he takes this action after a careful survey of circumstances and conditions in relation to foot and mouth disease in the country today. In speaking of the necessary restrictive action, Commissioner Felker says:

So long as there is any danger what soever from this dread contagion, the gatherings of large numbers of susceptible animals from widely different localities and conditions can only be permitted with the gravest risk. A very recent telegram from the federal government of Washington to the effect that another outbreak had just occurred in New York state serves to warn us that danger is far from remote. Massachusetts authorities on account of the unfortunately large number of outbreaks in that state have ruled that no cattle shall be exhibited from outside the state and none from within the state except under the most rigid inspection and from localities approved by the commissioner.

Many of the fairs, including the large one at Brockton, have eliminated all cattle from their lists and will allow none to be shown. Connecticut is to have all cattle shown at its big fairs this fall according to an agreement between the commissioners and the exhibitors. Maine is debating whether to bar all cattle from outside the state or to admit from the states of Maine and New Hampshire only. Seemingly the general opinion is agreed that all precautions within reason should be taken to prevent any reintroduction, or spread of this disease in our New England states, and to that end the commissioner of New Hampshire feels that the people of this state will welcome and gladly support the order.

the sidewalk at the time the slight mishap occurred.

NAVY YARD NOTES

This Pleased Them

Officers of the New York navy yard had received semi-official information that either three large submarines or the electric engines of the battleship
California will be constructed there.
This relieved the anxiety of 2,000 men, who feared that otherwise they would be dismissed. It was announced that the keel of the California will be laid about September 1.

HARCOURT SCORED AT PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

The Great Harcourt surely puzzled
the big audience at the Portsmouth Theatre last evening with his wonderful and peculiar act. A man perfectly normal in every respect, but possessing the ability to grow before your eyes. One of the most puzzling things about Mr. Harcourt's performance lies in the fact that he can move with as much freedom after he has become several inches taller than when he first makes his appearance on the stage as he did before. His ability to lengthen either one or both of his legs or arms at will, proved to be interesting and marvelous.

On the bill with Mr. Harcourt is the Hughes Musical Trio. This is a high class musical act that has proved to be a head-liner throughout New England. It is without question one of the best acts on the circuit today.
Their work with brass instruments was pleasing and the violin solo was finely rendered and beautifully executed. It is a musical act better far than the average.

Hallen & Hughes presented an entertaining, singing, talking and dancing number. They are styled as "Those English Chappies," and their act certainly proved to be a sensation. The picture bill was also very fine, the entire show being one of great strength, one of the best seen in Portsmouth for months.

PICTURES AND VAUDEVILLE FOR MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Picture—"THE ROAD O' STRIFE."

Latin drama, Episode 8th. This story is called "The Strength of Love." In the last story we left Alice in the millstream. The death of Abner Gray, the one who found the ring, is the big dramatic happening in this picture. Other exciting incidents take place at the old mill.

Act—HALLEN & HUGHES.

Those English chappies in a sensational singing, talking and dancing offering. These two boys "put across" one of the best acts of its kind.

Picture—HEART-SELIG NEWS PICTORIAL.

This is another feature. We want everybody that can, to see this feature. Bring the children. All bills see this also, as there is a big item for them.

Act—HUGHES MUSICAL TRIO.

High class musical act that has made good throughout the New England circuit.

Act—THE GREAT HARCOURT.

Man of Mystery. He grows before your eyes. All Portsmouth will be puzzled with this. This act caused all Boston to sit up at Gordon's Olympia.

Picture—FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN and BEVERLY BAYNE.

In a three-reel feature called "Providence and Mrs. Umy," Mr.
Bayne, looks very pretty and acts her part wonderfully and cleverly.
All the ladies, as well as the gentlemen and children, will like this picture.

"FIGHTING BLOOD"

Biograph, one reel. Contains nothing of the present war. Features Robert Harron.

Summer is the "extra-trousers season." We show trousers for all the various sports as well as for sartorial demands. Tennis trousers, golf trousers, yachting trousers, "outing" trousers for the sack coat and striped worsteds for the frock coat.

Alfred de Vigny's Idea.

The great French poet, Alfred de Vigny, wrote in 1844:
"After much reflection on the destiny of women in all ages and in all nations, I have ended by thinking that every man should greet every woman by asking 'Pardon!' instead of saying 'Good-day,' for it is the strongest who have made the law."
